121 A FINE SILVER GILT TANKARD

The short body, cylindrical in section but tapering slightly upwards, is divided by bands of moulding into three horizontal partitions, the centre of which is chased with medallions emblematic of the seven virtues, with designations above. The handle of narrow scroll-shape has a decorated hinge, which has once been enamelled, and the thumb piece is characteristic of early types. This is joined to the cover, which is chased with figures and leaf scrolls on a matted ground and surmounted by a ball-shaped ornament. At the back of the handle is another medallion: a portrait in classical attire; there is another medallion inside; and below the base is an inscription apparently in Runic characters, and probably contemporary; probably German, dated 1533; weight 45 ozs., 6½ in. high

* * A piece of the first importance. There appears to be no hall mark on the tankard, but it is certainly the work of a master and of the period circa 1533
